

Helmholtz Graduate School for
Polar and Marine Research

PROCEED

Helmholtz Career Development
Centre for Researchers

How to publish in peer-reviewed journals

Dr. Gunther Tress, Tress Academic

Date & Time:	10 – 12 April 2019 9 am – 5 pm
Location:	AWI Bremerhaven, room E-4025
Language:	English
Target group:	Doctoral candidates Postdocs
POLMAR credit points:	3
Registration:	info.polmar@awi.de

Course content:

The training provides an in-depth explanation of key aspects of peer-reviewed publishing. You learn step-by-step how to write a manuscript that gets published. If you are currently preparing a paper for an international peer-reviewed journal, this 3-day comprehensive training is ideal for you. During the training, you will improve your manuscript in progress or draft concrete ideas for a manuscript.

Target group:

- (a) Authors who are currently preparing or writing a manuscript for a peer-reviewed journal
- (b) authors who got manuscripts rejected, or
- (c) authors who want to significantly increase the success rate of papers they submit to peer-reviewed journals.

Students' comments on this course:

"This course would be extremely helpful for all my PhD colleagues."

"Clear guidelines, good structure. Very explicit training handbook, nice guidelines."

"I will recommend this course any postgraduate student I meet. I had no such course and no supervisor to help, and such a course will save enormous time, nerves and frustrations."

"I have written a draft of all parts of my article in three days."

"I feel like I write my paper tonight (almost)!"

"I can only recommend the course, it will save you time and increase your chance of getting published."

"To be honest I was expecting it worse but I liked it a lot and am satisfied."

"Very well explained and presented, not boring at all in any moment."

"Very precise training and up to the point. My head aches but I learned a lot."

More information: <https://tressacademic.com>

